OK, fellow parents - I need your help! I am presenting at a conference later this week on how to get kids and families more involved with government / city planning projects. I need your feedback...
What obstacles do you or your kids face that may prevent you from getting involved?

Jessica Pickul Thanks lady! Would you be more likely to go if you knew there would be child care/ interesting activities for your kids?

Janna Barnes Baby sitting is one. Also with our family both being full time working parents we have very little free time to spend as a family, get errands completed, and look up/find these city project events. The easier it is to find these events, sign up, and have kid friendly activities that don't mess up nap time and dinner time the more likely I would be to get involved.

Jessica Pickul Thanks Janna! I get it. This is super helpful to know.

Padraic Swanton Echoing everyone else, the more I can contribute without actually being there the better

Kristen Kibler Going to an evening meeting overlaps most kids' bedtime or is right up against it, so bringing them might not work.

Jillian Sutherland I don't have kids but I am a planner! Our most successful public outreach events have activities for kids or follow a family activity like a block party where parents can provide feedback. Kids often enjoy walk audit activities, drawing on maps, and looking at pictures at farmers market booths and such!

Jillian Sutherland Oh also we find evening isn't always the best time for everyone due to family activities, getting kids fed, etc. sometimes lunch hour events can work for working parents that can take a lunch break!

Jessica Pickul Thanks Jill! This is really great. So good to hear that you're doing these things.

IAP2 Spectrum of Public Participation

International Association for Public Participation

Increasing Level of Public Impact

Public participation goal	Inform	Consult	Involve	Collaborate	Empower
	To provide the public with balanced and objective information to assist them in understanding the problem, alternatives, opportunities and/or solutions.	To obtain public feedback on analysis, alternatives and/or decisions.	To work directly with the public throughout the process to ensure that public concerns and aspirations are consistently understood and considered.	To partner with the public in each aspect of the decision including the development of alternatives and the identification of the preferred solution.	To place final decision-making in the hands of the public.

Community Outreach Internship

Here's your chance to build your confidence and learn leadership and communication skills. Learn how to be a professional and confidently talk to businesses in the community!

C-TRAN and JLA Public Involvement are looking for interns to help us learn what businesses along Fourth Plain Blvd think about proposed bus improvements. Interns will talk to over a hundred businesses to get their thoughts on bus service. As an intern, you'll learn how to put together a good survey and learn skills in communication and professionalism. Then, you'll go out into the community and conduct the survey – and build confidence by talking to dozens of business representatives. You'll also get paid $10/hour. You can come to as many survey days as you want.

How it works:

1. Orientation – This orientation is mandatory for any student doing survey work. We'll explain how to conduct the survey and teach skills.
2. Survey Days – Interns will go out and conduct the survey, going door-to-door to businesses. We will provide free bus passes to get there and back. You can choose to go to one or more of the survey days. You'll get paid $10 for every hour you put in. The following dates are tentative.
    - Thursday April 12
    - Tuesday, April 17
    - Friday, April 20
3. Presentation to C-TRAN – (Optional) Sharpen your public speaking skills! Students may get a chance to present the results of their survey to a C-TRAN committee on April 25.

How to sign up – Please contact (503) 235-5881 and ask for Sylvia, Jeanne or Adrienne. You can also email sylva@jla.us.com
